The Way of the World

The world never tires of writing reading and thinking about Napoleon. Some modern writers-H. G. Wells, for example-call him little better than a wholesale murderer. Apparently he did little for his time or the times that came after him. He changed the map of Europe, but only temporarily. The fact remains that Napoleon was i great-great in ability. Above everything else, he was great in his capacity to get things done. He slept little and worked prodigiously. Napoleon didn't put things off. If he thought the army ought to move at 3 a. m. he stayed up all night. Comfort and convenience meant little to the Corsican.

The Diary New Yorker

NEW YORK, July 12-Think of something new that looks exclusive and expensive, and your for-tune is made in New York. A young man who had difficulties in meeting the payments on a Buick while working as a newspaper comic artist, now owns a Lincoln outright because he conceived the idea of designing exclusive radiator caps for wealthy owners of cars. However, his creations have the merit of being lovely objects d'art. Obviously they belong on Minervas and Isottis and Rolls-Royces and F. I. T.s and Lincolns, rather than on Fords.

He gets from $100 to $1,000 for the design in plaster and exacts an undercover commission from the bronzesmith who executes them for the owner of the design. Ironically his own car has an ordinary radiator cap, because every time he designs something lovely the wasting a possible $500 crea-

11. Way of the World

By GROVE PATTERSON

NAPOLEON

The world never tires of writing reading and thinking about Napoleon. Some modern writers-H. G. Wells, for example-call him little better than a wholesale murderer. Apparently he did little for his time or the times that came after him. He changed the map of Europe, but only temporarily. The fact remains that Napoleon was great-great in ability. Above everything else, he was great in his capacity to get things done. He slept little and worked prodigiously. Napoleon didn't put things off. If he thought the army ought to move at 3 a. m. he stayed up all night. Comfort and convenience meant

GARDENS

Gardens teach a lesson in life. You can't just let a garden "muddle through" and expect to get a good garden. It is something that has to have definite attention and plenty of it. You can't get something for nothing in a garden. It's like character-it doesn't just happen.

SPARE THE PEDESTRIAN Give the self-made pedestrian a chance. Motoring friends mean well, but they interfere with a very happy practice when they insist on picking up their walking friends. The morning walk is one of the pleasantest events of the day for the confirmed pedestrian. Let him have his fun. And it may be that he needs the exercise.

"SMELL IMAGINATION"

Do you have olfactory imagination? That is to say, do smells recapture scenes and experiences and moments of years ago? Does the edor of yellow roses, for instance, take you back to boyhood on the farm, and a yellow rosebush in a corner of the front yard? If it does, you have olfactory imagination.

NEW YORK, July 12-Think of something new that looks exclusive and expensive, and your for-tune is made in New York. A young man who had difficulties in meeting the payments on a Buick while working as a newspaper comic artist, now owns a Lincoln outright because he conceived the idea of designing exclusive radiator caps for wealthy owners of cars. However, his creations have the merit of being lovely objects d'art. Obviously they belong on Minervas and Isottis and Rolls-Royces and F. I. T.s and Lincolns, rather than on Fords.

He gets from $100 to $1,000 for the design in plaster and exacts an undercover commission from the bronzesmith who executes them for the owner of the design. Ironically his own car has an ordinary radiator cap, because every time designs something lovely

I caught an old friend avoiding me on the street one day and was distressed over this until I figured out the reason .One night while in a confidential mood he told me facts about his life that he doubtless is now ashamed of.

Naturally, he now feels embarrassed whenever he sees me, for I know things about him that are a secret to everybody else.

The surest way to lose a friend is to permit him to talk too freely.

FELI MISCHAULE ALL OVER BEFORE TAKING KONJOLA

Local Man Says New Medicine Built Up His Rundown System.

Twenty-two different roots and herbs combined with other recognized medical ingredients, go into the making of this new Konjola Sufferers from every section of Xenia are praising this compound after it relieved them of disorders of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels. Stubborn cases of rheumatism and neuritis have been ended. The Konjola Man is personally explaining the merits of this new medicine to vast crowds of people, and at the time, many well known men and women ere strongly indorsing this remedy. For instance just a few days ago Mr. A. H. Caplinger, 564 Cincinnati Avenue, Xenia, made the following statement to the Konjola Man who is at the Gallaher Drug Store, this

Before taking Konjola i suffered from various ailments for many years," said Caplinger, "and I really didn't think it was possible for one medicine to restore my health like Konjola did."

"My health was in a general rundown condition and no matter what I would do for it. I still seemed to be dragging through life, half sick all the time. My stomach was in a terrible shape. Every meal I ate caused intense suffering in the pit of my stomach. The gas which used to form would rise into my throat and mouth making it very unpleasant for me I would sometimes be attacked with awful belching spells when bits of undigested food would come up making it hard to keep anything that I ate on my stomach. I was awfully constipated and poisons filled my system so that I felt tired and wornout all day long. At nights I couldn't rest well but would toss back and forth on the bed for hours before going to sleep. I was in this condition for almost a year, and was getting discouraged.

"I heard of Konjola through a friend and made up my mind to try this medicine. It's a blessing that I did for this medicine is just what I always needed. I have taken but three bottles of Konjola but it has made me feel better than I have in years. My appetite is wonderful now and I can sit down and eat whatever is placed before me, without thought of after effects. The gas never forms now and the belching spells that used to come over me are permanently ended. I never have to take any kind of laxative because Kenjola cleansed my whole inner-system. In fact, I feel fine in every way and it is all due to my taking Konjola. am glad to indorse your medicinbecause I know what it will do and think it should be used by everyone troubled as I was. The Konjola Man is at the Gallaher Drug Store, Xenia, where he is daily meeting the public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy. Free sam--Adv. ples given.
